'Indian institutions lagging behind in research'

Students producing duplicated or repetitive work, lament academics at a workshop at ALJET

STAFF REPORTER

Emphasizing the need for original research work in the academia of the country, AN Raghupathi, poet, short story writer and assistant professor at the Central University of Tamil Nadu's Department of English, expressed concern over the lack of remarkable and creative literary and research work carried out in the country in the recent past.

Mr. Raghupathi was delivering the keynote address at the inaugural session of a workshop on 'Research Methodology and Dynamics' and launching ceremony of research and literary books organized by the Andhra Loyola Institute of Engineering and Technology (ALJET).

Books by research scholars being released at the Andhra Loyola Institute of Engineering and Technology.

Methodology and Dynamics: research and literary books

Many teachers who are getting into universities do not have hands-on experience in research. A lot of research was done in the 1940s and 50s and there is a huge gap now, Indian institutions are lagging behind in research while universities in the US and UK are a century ahead of us," he said.

Every day about 8000 research articles across various fields of study are submitted in the world. The contribution of Indian researchers is too low and re-inventers have ended up producing duplicated or repetitive work," he added.

Andhra area, Delhi publisher Ashwath Kumar Ghosh stressed the need for original and innovative changes among students. Dr. Vora, head of the Sanskrit University, Karnataka, said preparation for research should begin in early college days and any research should be original and best in constructive manner.

Books released
 Books authored and edited by Sr. Sandy V. Cunha of ALJET (English Language and Literature in the Era of Globalization), E.P. Raghupathi, D.K. and beyond for poetry and drama. 'The Last Poem' (The Spirit of Age and Ideal in the World of PCC, Poem and Letter Through Mahesh Chaturvedi) were released on the occasion.

S.R. Sathish Babu, College of Engineering's Department of English head P. Karanishdra Kollur, ALJET's Managing Director P. Venkateswarlu, ALJET Department of Visual Communication director P. Sathish Babu were present.
